Edward “Ted” Webster
1933 - 2013

"Ted" 80, died peacefully at home July 18, 2013 in Marlboro, VT. Born on May 12, 1933 in Abington, PA, Ted was a lifelong activist, writer, and seeker. A passionate and tireless advocate of positive social change, Ted was a champion for civil rights and war tax resistance in the 1960s, and more recently worked on counter-recruiting.

Ted was a Quaker, a Sufi, and a deep believer that a spiritual path in life can not only offer glimpses of transcendence, but also help build community, provoke questioning, and bring peace.

Ted was a long time member of the Sacred Dance Guild and was on the organizing committee for Festival 1994 held at Regis College in Boston.

A loving father, grandfather, partner, and friend, Ted is survived by his sons Mark, John, and Chris, by his grandchildren Rebecca, Haddie, and Ely, and by his partner, Edie Mas.
